It currently has about 21k miles on the odometer, and this number is slowly increasing. This pregen ninja 250 has seen some shit. It's clearly been dropped on both sides at least once, but not very likely. I personally dropped it on the right side having decided to ride on some ice. All plastics are still on it, but I wouldn't say they are intact. Countless weeaboo stickers that cover it are holding the bike together. Seat is torn by my obese ass and having been covered with snow certainly helped. I'm currently using it as a commuter bike, it works well and has been very reliable ever since I got the damn cam chain tensioner replaced. Primary reason I'm selling it is its apparent inability to develop velocities significantly exceeding 95 mph, which can be extremely frustrating on I-15, as you probably already know.

Now that I read it again, it looks like the ad is unnecessarily grim and negative. So, on the bright side, it has almost new chain, sprockets and front brake pads.

Update: some non-load-bearing stickers has been removed. Also, I'm going to include some parts with it: a couple of spark plugs, carb rebuild kit and an oil filter.

Another update: randomly decreased price back to $1300.

You can be a proud 6th owner! It's your lucky chance, don't miss it!
